Let's start banning people who eat sugary products, because that can lead to diabetes.

The same mixture without the resorcinol was found to be mutagenic.

It would be nice if these stores would at least adjust the price because you know they aren't paying as much as they once were for these items to be made.

I think you have to expect things will continuously change, avoid getting locked into a fixed set of ideas, and prepare to make small adjustments along the way.
